Synopsis

Back home, Leila was involved in a mysterious car accident that her mind has blocked from her memory.

Now it's summer, and Leila escapes on a Roman holiday to tend to her wounds in the arms of her sister, Anna.

But the two sisters can't connect and if Leila's going to recover, she'll have to take the first steps alone...

Leila Albayaty

After studies in music - the violin - and architecture in France, Leila Albayaty started at the IAD (Institut des Arts de Diffusion) Film School in Brussels.

She left the film school after some months and directed a documentary, “Vacances” (Holidays), a video log of a journey throughout southern Europe with a caravan, but with no car.

In parallel to her work as a video artist, she also worked on compositions for several performances and short films.

In 2006, she brought out an album of her own music, “Dans le soleil”, on the french label Stupid Competitions; a sensitive record, on the edge of pop, song writing and electronic music in which one discovers a world tinted with cinematographic atmospheres, at the same time melancholic, fragile, disturbing and modern...

She then returned to film-making by shooting her first fiction short film, VU, in Rome.

Leila Albayaty lives and works between Berlin and Brussels. She is currently working on her next album.

Is it true?

Is it false?

Is it me?

When I'm told stories...

I ask myself:

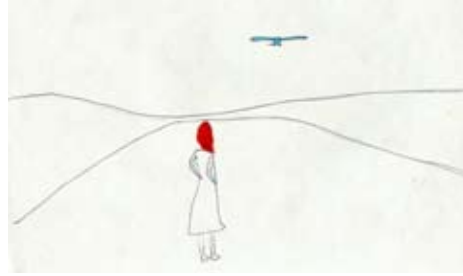

Is it true?

Is it false?

Since the accident, I have amnesia.

Today, I'm heading off to the sun,

To visit my sister, Anna.

We were both brought up by mum,
Who for us went without,
And worked so very hard.

We are both ready to lose our minds

Trying to find a handsome man,

Trying to find a handsome man.

I love you madly

I love you madly

Your face, forgotten.

Your face, massacred by memory.

Stars draw closer,

Then grow further apart, from each other.

I grow further apart from you.

The stars don't touch each other.

Maybe that's why you pushed me...

When I walk,

I see you everywhere,

And I ask you why

I'm alone with myself and I'd like to be another...

always.

And I would like to be another, always.

And in the shadows

Your silhouette emerges.

I see you,

touch you,

imagine you everywhere,

watching me.

I want to be what you desire,

and also what you dislike.

I dream of being a normal girl,

and all I want is to forget you aren't there.
